Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The concave surface subtending the aperture and the concave and convex surfaces having equal radii are not supported by the original disclosure.

3. Please note that the changes to the paragraph on page 5 are all new matter except for the seat having the convex surface. The drawings and the rest of the original disclosure do not support the concave surface and the equal radii.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gerondale in view of Baudin.

Gerondale shows a nozzle 7, neck seen in Figure 2; shoulder 2; aperture 8, 9; ring surrounded by 5; threads 16; cap 4; top and skirt seen in Figure 1; seat at 3; grooves 17; lip/seal means 5 or the portion engaging the ring after strip 5 has been removed. Gerondale lacks the concave and convex surfaces of the aperture and seat having equal radii and not entering the aperture. Baudin shows such an arrangement in Figure 3 represented by numerals 20 and 40. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the matching concave and convex structures as taught by Baudin on the device of Gerondale in order to provide a more complete seal and thus help prevent drying of the product around the aperture (column 5, lines 14-22).

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 10/17/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that the concave surface and the equal radii are shown in the drawings as originally filed. It appears to the examiner that there is no concave surface in the figures as the top appears flat. Further, there is no way to determine the radii as there appears to be no concave surface. Also, there is no statement that the drawings are to scale and, therefore, the drawings could not be used to determine the equal radii even if the concave surface was shown.

Applicant contends that as Baudin shows a hinge, that the combined device would not teach rotation between the parts. Baudin was merely used to teach the concave and convex portions; the Gerondale reference clearly shows the rotatable connection. As the references have proper motivation for combining, the rejection stands.
